

Internet Development Firm Wirestone Acquires Two Companies

EMERYVILLE, Calif.--(VENTUREWIRE)--Aug. 25, 2000--Wirestone, an Internet marketing and technology integration firm, said it has acquired Coonts Design and rdgStudio, two Fort Collins, Colorado-based Internet design and technology firms. Financial terms of the deals were not disclosed. All 21 employees of Coonts Design and rgbStudios will remain with Wirestone and serve in similar positions. Wirestone said the acquisition is part of the company's plan to acquire web-development, marketing, strategy and technology design firms in major U.S. cities. The company said it is also looking to expand internationally. Wirestone has received venture capital from Prime Ventures, Edgewater Ventures, and Plantagenet Capital Management.
